

Llibert López Pascual

Spanish Composer (*1937)

Llibert López Pascual was born 1937 in Barcelona. He studied in the Conservatori Superior de Música de Barcelona with Joaquim Zamacois, Josep M^a Millet, Carles Pellicer, Carmen Villegas and Mestre Català.

After finishing his studies he began playing classical music, but he soon specialised in jazz, American standards and Pop music. Adventure lover, he left Barcelona and travelled all over Europe, and lived several years in Finland, Sweden, Germany and Switzerland. After that he travelled to Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands where he stayed for some time until he moved to Miami (USA). At present he lives in Barcelona.

As composer, he has written more than a hundred works in many different styles, from Classical to Dance music. His admiration for Albéniz inspired him to write successful piano suites, like "Evocación", "Iberíada" and "Fantasía" that have been performed by the best pianists all over the world.
